With an iron

Like a crimper but one million times cooler, this is the quickest way to ace the effortless wave, with minimum effort.

Starting from the underneath sections, begin to style your hair using the iron. Start as close to your roots as you can (without burning yourself, of course!). Work your way to the top layer, making sure you haven't missed any strands. Once finished, flip your head upside down and separate the waves with your fingers.

With a tong

The barrel curl may be long gone, but that doesn't mean you need to throw away your trusty tong.

- Curl small sections of hair, from the root right through to the ends. Curl in different directions – remember the best thing about this look is it doesn't have to be perfect.
- Once all the sections are curled, use your fingers or a wide-toothed comb to separate each curl and embrace the undone wave.

No tool, no worries!

If you've found yourself loving this on-trend look, but you're without a hair tong or curling iron, don't fret. Just get styling the night before you want to debut your new hair look.

- BEFORE YOU GO TO BED: Separate your hair into a top layer and a bottom layer, and then into three parts per layer. Plait each of these small sections, securing the end with a hairband.
- IN THE MORNING: Undo each plait. Using your fingers, separate each plait and shake up your hair at the roots to create some extra volume.
