STRESS-FREE STRANDS

Humidity, chlorine and pollution can wreak havoc on hair, so prepare your mane with deep nourishing products. Opt for a travel-sized shampoo and conditioner, and avoid using hotel products as they're not hair-type specific and can leave your locks dry and frizzy. Soaking up some rays? Nourish your hair after sun exposure with a hot oil treatment.

SAVING FACE

Flying, air-con and changing weather conditions can zap precious moisture from skin, so it's important to hydrate. Start and finish each day with a deep cleanse to remove make-up and any other nasties, and keep pore-clogging oils at bay throughout the day with blotting tissues. The strength of the sun's rays varies from continent to continent, so slip, slop, slap each morning to keep your skin protected. Oh, and don't forget to sip on that all-important H₂O!
