Curly, Curly, Curly!

Want to put a spring in your shag? We quiz hair expert Anthony Nader on how to go from straight to spirals with these simple star styles

1 Flip wet hair over and blast with a hair dryer until half dry. Run a touch of shine spray and curl-defining mousse through locks then finish blow-drying using a round brush, winding sections of hair up towards the crown.

2 Rake fingers through hair until it naturally divides. If you have a side fringe like Vanessa Hudgens, brush it over one side of your face.

3 Wrap uneven sections around six hot rollers. Once they're cool, remove and break up curls using your fingers.

Rachel McAdams

Screen-siren spirals

1 To copy Rachel McAdams's take on Grace Kelly waves, add a spritz of sea salt spray to damp hair. 2 Part hair to one side then divide into four sections. Blast with hair dryer using a round brush to lift roots up for extra volume. 3 Starting at the back of the head, pick up random sections of hair in different sizes. Use a straightening iron to wind each piece towards the centre of the head. Brush out curls with a paddle brush, then finish with a light coat of hair spray.

Amanda Seyfried

Mermaid tresses

1 To get Amanda Seyfried's look, towel freshly washed hair and shake dry while blasting with a hair dryer. Work a tennis-ball-sized amount of mousse through hair, and continue to blow-dry while smoothing over with a bristle brush.
2 Starting at the back of the head, take a medium-sized barrel tong and wrap chunky sections of hair around the wand, working your way up towards the crown of the head.
3 Once complete, rake through with an extra-wide toothcomb and finish with a light spritz of hair spray.

'70s waves

1 Embrace your inner hippie like Whitney Port by parting damp hair in the centre and working a shine spray from roots to ends. Rake hair with fingers while blow-drying, then run a brush through hair for a smooth finish.

2 Using a three-barrel tong, divide hair into two sections. Crimp the bottom section from the roots to the ends and the top section from mid-lengths to ends.

3 Brush through with a paddle brush to give the illusion of beautiful rippled waves.
