Rainbow BRIGHT

Pop-dipped ends and hypercolour highlights are so now! And it's as easy as ABC to DIY Kaleidoscopic hair is a huge trend, with Helen Mirren, 68, Jessica Rowe, 43, and Pink, 34, just a few of the celebrities who love to wear their locks loud and proud. So why not join them and show off your own wild streaks?

Giving yourself at-home colour-dipped hair is easy and quick. The first step is to choose the most fun and flattering shade for you, while making sure it's visible over your existing hair colour.

Pink is the most popular choice for temporary hair highlights because it gives a flattering kick of colour to nearly everyone.

Orange is more unusual and works beautifully with paler skin tones.

If you're dark, rich jewel tones like sapphire and violet will give best coverage on brunette ends.

What's your colour commitment?

◆ ONE WASH

Colour-dipping might only be fun for you for one weekend, so you need to experiment with wash-out shades that give great coverage for a short time. Dabble with easy-to-apply hair chalks and coloured sprays and choose from a range of colours without any commitment.

Kevin. Murphy Color Bug in Orange, $24.95

Smart Colour Temporary Hair Colour Spray in Carmine Pink, $12.95

Fudge Urban Colour Chalks in Elektrik Blue, $9.95

Vixen Hair Graffiti Hair Colour Chalks in Pastel, $11.99

◆ ONE MONTH

Had a go with colour chalks and loved it? Now you can take this relationship to the next level. Try these fast-application semi-permanent dyes that wash out gradually over a month for less mess with twice as much colour saturation.

Fudge Paintbox Creative Conditioning Colour in Red Corvette and (below) Blueberry Hill, $18.95 each

Vixen War Paint in Lunar Blue, $17.95

Reader Georgia Bennett went pink in less than seven minutes...

STEP 1 After protecting your clothing, grab your product of choice. We chose a pink hair chalk for good coverage and easy application. Run the chalk around your hair down from your mid-lengths to your tips until you've achieved perfect coverage. STEP 2 Lock in the colour until your next shampoo by spritzing well with a medium-hold hairspray and you're done.

Georgia says... "I really liked the results. The colour took to my curly hair easily. It's certainly a bit of fun and I made sure I went out that night with my new hair. My friends did notice it but it wasn't like it was total shock value. I will definitely try it again - it's fast and easy - but next time I'm thinking orange."
